

CHEF MARIO BATALI CELEBRATES HIS GREEN RESTAURANT CERTIFICATION

Celebrity Chef Mario Batali celebrates his Green Restaurant Association certified restaurants with the first-ever Farmer's Market at The Palazzo.

Celebrity Chef Mario Batali celebrated the Green Restaurant Association certification of his three restaurants: Carnevino at The Palazzo and B&B Ristorante and Enoteca San Marco at The Venetian by bringing the first-ever Farmer's Market to The Palazzo. "Bet on the Farm: Sustainable Food and Wine" welcomed local green farmers to The Palazzo.

On display was fresh and sustainable produce such as tomatoes, cucumbers, and honey for sale. Chef Batali held a press conference discussing the green initiatives within his restaurant and why joining the Green Restaurant Association was so important. Additionally, Elizabeth Meltz, Director of Food Safety and Sustainability, discussed what 'sustainable' means and why the partnership between the restaurants and The Palazzo exists. At the end of the press conference, a brief Q&A session was held for media attendees to address any outstanding questions to Chef Batali.
