VOLUME 69, NUMBER 5, MAY 1999

Features

198 The Full McGregor
He's a smoker, a drinker and a self-described wanker. But Scottish bad boy Ewan McGregor is moving from indie rogue to blockbuster megastar with one streak of a light saber
BY ALLISON GLOCK

169 The Good Life A Special Section
Needless to say, the good life comprises many very good, even perfect, days. Here, six writers describe an exquisite day in each of their very different hometowns. Funny, none of them involve going to the office

172 Too Much Is Never Enough
One epicurean went to Monaco to taste the good life and consumed ten three-star meals in five days at one restaurant. He returned home a wiser (and wider) man
BY ALAN RICHMAN

190 Daze of Heaven
Another epicurean went to France to sample the good life at the health spa in Eugénie-les-Bains. There he consumed French wine and French cheese. He got naked a lot. And he had the most terrifying moment of his life
BY PETER MAYLE

180 12 Guys You Should Know
These men know what's up when it comes to getting in shape, getting a divorce or just getting beyond the velvet rope. They have the skills and the style, so it's in your best interest to befriend them

186 Boy Toys
Who doesn't deserve his own leather checkerboard and stainless-steel thermos? Treat yourself to one of these twenty-five indulgences too good to give away

204 Big Trouble in Havana
What will Cuba look like once Fidel is gone? Maybe like it did before him—a teeming fleshpot of hotels and casinos, all run and regulated by organized crime. But this time around, there will be no Yankee mobsters—this Mafia's all Sicilian. And it has big plans
BY BOB DRURY

212 Becoming the Greatest
Muhammad Ali's 1965 knockout of Sonny Liston was questioned by many. But Neil Leifer's photo shows the "phantom punch" was, without a doubt, pure Ali sting

214 Roots
When clumps of her hair started falling out, geneticist Angela Christiano began a scientific search for the cause of baldness. She's already found one gene linked to hair loss, and a treatment that will prevent and cure it is an imminent possibility. So why haven't the drug companies beaten a path to her lab door?
BY JOHN SEDGWICK

Fashion

220 100 Degrees in the Shade
When the mercury's on the rise, keep cool in these lightweight wool suits. Soft hues and subtle patterns make summer a breeze

228 Sole Searching
Our step-by-step guide to pounding the hot summer pavement in style, whether it be in wing tips or loafers, sandals or sneakers. Follow us

232 Fatigue Syndrome
Once crammed with ammo and rations, fifty years later, cargo pockets are stocked with cell phones and water bottles. Stand at ease in cargo pants, the new utilitarian classic

ON THE COVER

Ewan McGregor shows off his dark side in a black suit by Gucci. Charcoal coat and tie and white shirt, all by Marc Jacobs.

GOOD
LIFE

RICHARD GOLUB,
TRIAL LAWYER

"The most important thing [when preparing for a divorce case] is to discover the other guy's assets," says Golub, the New York barrister who has sued William Hurt and defended Donald Trump, revealing the ethical code of divorce lawyering. "You have to find out how much there is and how to get it." Silk suit jacket, $1,705, and matching trousers, $260; cotton shirt, $260; cotton tie, $30; all by Helmut Lang. Shoes by Allen-Edmonds, $265

12 GUYS YOU SHOULD KNOW

A PERFECT BODY. A DIVORCE. A REALLY
GOOD SUIT. IF THERE'S SOMETHING
YOU WANT, THESE ARE THE MEN TO SEE

MARIO BATALI, CHEF

"The pig is king!" exclaims Batali, who has a way with the many underappreciated parts of that animal. He also is king—of a small but powerful food empire that includes a TV show, a cookbook and two New York restaurants, Pó and the new and extremely well-received Babbo, where nicely dressed people ask for beef cheek in their ravioli. Cotton shirt, $38; cotton trousers, $38; both by Gap. Cotton crew-neck T-shirt by Jockey, $19. Clogs by Clazuro (his own). Assorted meats from Salumeria Bieluese Charcuterie Française, N.Y.C.
