EVENT

Art and Architecture with Versace

On October 21, Versace and Vanity Fair, along with Rosette Delug, Maggie Kayne, and Hammer Museum director Annie Philbin, hosted an elegant evening of art and architecture to benefit Hammer Projects. Guests enjoyed a tour of a home designed by John Lautner, including a James Turrell light-installation mediation room and informal modeling of Versace's fall/winter 2010 collection.

Big Love Season 5

The critically acclaimed HBO drama series Big Love returns for its final season on Sunday, January 16, at 9 P.M., only on HBO. Big Love tells the story of polygamist Bill Henrickson, who struggles to balance his relationships with his three wives and growing family. The explosive new season begins in the wake of Bill's surprising election to the Senate, his announcement that he and his wives are polygamists, and the many consequences they face as a result. ## Magic, Martinis, and Mario

On October 6, Vanity Fair got up close and personal with Mario Batali at "Magic, Martinis, and Mario," where guests enjoyed cocktails, dinner, and magic all in support of the Mario Batali Foundation. The famed chef showcased his extraordinary culinary talents, demonstrating the preparation of each course while guests bid on silent and live auction items. Notable attendees included Anthony Bourdain, Jimmy Fallon, Mariska Hargitay, Isaac Mizrahi, Isabella Rossellini, Michael Stipe, and Stanley Tucci.

RING AROUND THE GLOBE

Bulgari has partnered with the Save the Children foundation in support of quality education for underprivileged children around the world and pledged to raise $7.4 million. The jewelry house has designed a unique silver-and-ceramic limited-edition ring—which has the charity's logo engraved inside the band—and it will be sold in concurrence with Bulgari events in Rome, Shanghai, Tokyo, and Los Angeles this month. As part of the campaign, photographer Fabrizio Ferri is lending a philanthropic hand by shooting celebrity supporters such as Sting, Ben Stiller, Jessica Biel, and Isabella Rossellini who will be donning the bauble throughout the new year. ### MY MOST USED APP IS...

JOSH RUBIN
FOUNDER,
COOLHUNTING.COM

I'm a content junkie, so the Slide Reader is my go-to. I rely on all my RSS feeds to keep me current on hundreds of different Web sites, but I'm also a very visual person, so having all of this stuff in the navigable grid of images works well.

Also check out these apps: Cool Hunting, Mario Batali Cooks!, and NYTimes.

MARIO BATALI
CHEF AND RESTAURATEUR

I use Google Voice Search to get info on spelling, travel, and locations I am headed to. Also to check facts and dates for winning small bets and answering all trivia queries.

DAVID CARR
COLUMNIST,
THE NEW YORK TIMES

Flipboard brings magazine aesthetics and design to social media. It takes streams of data and reiterates them into a gorgeous magazine-like format. The links come alive with pictures, text, and headlines that you can scan or read.
